INTRODUCTION

The South African economy is heading for a recession or worse. This places serious financial constraints on businesses who expect the procurement function to maximise value.

History and case studies show, that commercial contracting remains one of the most difficult process for organisations to master. Unfortunately most organisations continue to haemorrhage financially due to poorly placed contracts that either do not deliver what stakeholders need or fail to deliver value on scope, to time and cost.

Winning organisations adopt procurement processes that are risk-centric, performance based, and leverage teamwork within the procuring organisation i.e. using the cross-functional expertise of procurement, management, financial and technical functions of the organisation to improve and evolve a best practice based, dynamic, and robust procurement function.

This dynamic Alintacorp Contracts Management training workshop in Tender Bidding, Evaluation, and Negotiation & Contract Award has been specifically designed for organizations that wish to engage for two days with an experienced expert facilitator to enhance excellence within their purchasing, tendering and contracting departments.

THIS COURSE WILL FEATURE:

- Developing a Specific Statement of Requirements based on the actual needs of the organization
- Communication and understanding of stakeholders needs
- Preparing a robust and viable Tender Package
- Analysing risks and problems within the Evaluation phase
- Developing the right evaluation criteria for a specific project
- Monitoring the Performance of the Selected Suppliers
